

What is the Electronic Journals Library (EZB)?

- Database with listings of electronic journals
- Via the EZB the University Library offers access to licensed and freely accessible journals
- Search for journal titles possible
- Within a journal:
  - Retrieval of requested articles
  - Search for articles by subject possible

Access via

- the catalog: only licensed electronic journals are listed there
-> a ‚full text‘ link leads from the result display to the EZB access for the journal
- the homepage of the University Library (Search and Borrow > Electronic Journals \(EZB\))

Requirements

- Access within the scope of the applicable copyright law for employees of the University as well as external users with a valid library card
- Licensed content can only be retrieved within the campus network
  - Off-campus access via VPN client and, if applicable, Shibboleth (user code + password) for university employees
  - access for external users only possible at the research computers in the rooms of the University Library

Display of availability via traffic light system

Access to full texts:

●○○ = freely available

○●○ = free for the staff and students of the University of Stuttgart (within the Campus network)

○●● = only in part accessible as full text

○○● = not accessible

Hints

- Within a journal articles can be read, downloaded within the scope of the applicable copyright law, and sent by email
- For journals that are not licensed by the University Library, access to tables of contents and/or abstracts is possible
-> articles from these journals can be requested via interlibrary loan
- For further comprehensive search use the database portal DBIS.
